BRYANT, Jack
Chattanooga, Tenn.

leader with his brother, Harry of the Dixie Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, based in Chattanooga. (FACTS, ADL report, January, 1961) Tennessee.

The Dixie Klans has associated both with Robert Shelton's United Klans and with Bowers Venable's National Knights of the KKK; are more extremist than most local KKK groups; the Bowers control are strong Klavern in Anniston, Ala., a few small ones in the northwest corner of Georgia, but their main strength is in eastern Tennessee where they have perhaps as many as fifteen 2000 or 3000 supporters. (ADL Facts, Dec. 1960)

According to news article in Washington Post 5/16/65 the Dixie Klans have a membership of about 100. (See CRI file: KKK for newspaper)